A Financial Responsibility Program for Young People

Developed by the Academy for Educational Development for the America's Promise Alliance, with funding from the Peter G. Peterson Foundation, Saving Our Futures: A Financial Responsibility Program for Young People is a curriculum that teaches young people in middle and high school about financial responsibility, and to advocate for smarter money management in their homes, schools, and communities.

Implement the Curriculum and Earn Money for Your Classroom and School

Earn $500 in NMSA Gift Certificates

The first 100 applicants to teach at least three modules of the curriculum and submit their evaluation along with an outline of a financial responsibility, service-learning project their class could implement will receive $500 in gift certificates good for all NMSA products, events, and other resources.

Win $1,000 for a Service Learning Project

NMSA and APA will select 10 of the financial responsibility, service-learning project outlines and award those schools with $1,000 to implement their plan and submit a report of the outcome. Winners to be announced at NMSA's Annual Conference.
